Publicado por María Rodríguez - 28-10-2006 18:38:14

Ya queda menos para Salsorro 2006. Para esta edición cuenta con 15 compañías invitadas entre las que destacan bailarines de la talla de Jhesus Aponte, Tropical Gem, Oliver y Luda, Swinguys, Salsamania, Junior y Emily, Sabor a Fuego, Adrián y Anita, Pablo y Diana, Nuno y Vanda, etc.

El programa combina las actividades habituales de este tipo de festivales (talleres, espectáculos y fiestas) con otras actividades como su multitudinaria cena de gala o la posibilidad de visitar el casco histórico de la ciudad, considerada por la UNESCO ciudad cultural Patrimonio de la Humanidad.

Los talleres se organizan en cuatro niveles (master classes, avanzado, intermedio y elemental). También hay cinco talleres de tipo alternativo (nivel intermedio) donde se imparten clases de otros bailes y disciplinas (tango argentino, movimiento corporal, interpretación musical, etc.) y una master class de DJs de 3 horas con Pablo Bat.

Los espectáculos se celebrarán en el auditorio del Palacio de Congresos y Exposiciones de Galicia, que cuenta con 1500 butacas. A continuación, dos fiestas por noche: sesión salsera en el hall posterior de 1500m2 y sesión de música latina en una sala anexa.

Toda la información sobre el evento se encuentra en <http://www.salsorro.com/salsorro2006/index.php>

Salsorro

Publicado por gey - 12-11-2006 11:46:09

La tierra se calienta y Santiago se tropicaliza a ritmo de salsa

Mil doscientas personas participan del trópico utópico de Salsorro

Apasionados del baile de toda Europa, casi la mitad portugueses, asisten al festival ?centos franceses, alemanes, portugueses, italianos e ingleses se entremezclaban ayer en el Pazo de Congresos con las sonoridades de la música latina más internacional, que se le ha dado en llamar salsa, y sobre cuyos orígenes no parecen ponerse de acuerdo los salseros. Se trata de la quinta edición del Festival Internacional de Salsa de Galicia o Salsorro 2006, un evento del que son culpables dos compostelanos gozadores de los caribeños ritmos, Diego Perea y Alfonso Noya, creadores de la web Salsorro. En la lluviosa y húmeda capital gallega surgió, pues, este musical trópico utópico de cuatro días en el que se dan cita los mejores bailarines del mundo en el género.

Un utópico trópico de danzas y sones en el que el idioma oficial es el portugués. Y no porque de repente Galicia se haya pasado al reintegracionismo sino porque los vecinos del país hermano son, con diferencia, los que acaparan este gozoso encuentro de cuerpos y ritmos. No acierta uno a explicarse el fenómeno; si la culpa es del fado, como nostalgia o tristeza cantada que no se baila, o si el calentamiento de la tierra nos está tropicalizando inconscientemente a todos.

El hecho es que de entre los más de mil doscientos bailarines que ayer se contoneaban en el vaporoso ambiente de los salsórricos talleres, casi dos de cada uno, quinientos, eran portugueses. Pero ni la lusofonía lograba imponerse ayer al poderoso lenguaje de la salsa; esperanto de ritmo, musicalidad y sensualidad que se va imponiendo por el globalizado mundo adelante, con su moda y merchandising .

Una prueba de ese dominio planetario de la salsa está en las dos parejas de profesores estrellas en las clases del Salsorro 2006, campeona y subcampeona en el último campeonato del mundo. Los primeros, Oliver y Luda, se conocieron a los once años en Australia y llevan trece años bailando juntos, afincados ahora, dónde iba a ser sino, en Portugal. Oliver es de ascendencia chilena pero nació y residió en Chile, y Luda es rusa pero residía en Australia. Estos dos dioses del género explican lo «fuerte» que está la salsa en Australia y en la tierra de Rasputín. «Mi familia siempre bailaba y yo ya lo hacía de niño, que es la forma de aprender más rápido», cuenta Oliver, confirmando que el baile, como las lenguas, cuanto más niños se ejercitan mejor.

Pero las estrellas del encuentro no son los campeones del mundo sino los subcampeones, Adrián y Anita, los dos protagonistas del programa televisivo Mira quien baila , con los que todos los congresistas quieren posar. Anita Santos, de padre gallego y madre brasileña, es toda una prueba de las beldades, y maravillosas verdades, del mestizaje entre pieles y salsa que hacen bailar al mismísimo Oscar Ladoire.
